

Partnering with Taiwan for better collaboration

For years, Taiwan has successfully proven itself as a major player in the high-tech manufacturing world and strategically positioned itself as an integral part of the consumer electronics global supply chain. With the recent rapid changing pace, not only the change of the ICT industrial structure, but moreover, more innovative new products and applications and services will also be derived quickly. Thus, the transforming of hardware-centric thinking into software or innovated-centric thinking makes Taiwan come out with a number of impressive solutions for the smart city application.

This May 31st, the Taiwan External Trade Development Council (TAITRA) sincerely invites you to visit Taiwan for meeting solution and product providers and the Computex Taipei 2017 as well. We strongly believe Taiwan’s companies can fulfill your needs by providing integrated systems and offer real-time, convenient, and services for your upcoming projects.
